

DISABILITY ARTS CYMRU INFORMATION SHEET

Essential Tips for Disabled Writers

DEVELOP YOUR SKILLS

The best writers recognise that there's always a need to improve.

Attend workshops / writers groups, or take part in home-based or online writing workshops - now available through many universities.

Get feedback about your work. Remember that asking the opinion of family and friends will not always be completely objective. With Academi's Critical Service, for example, an experienced writer can assess your work. Try to take feedback on board and learn from it.

Funding - Academi offer various bursaries, including an Enabling Bursary for disabled writers of up to £2,000. It can pay for specialist equipment, travel costs, secretarial assistance, and training.

GETTING YOUR WORK OUT THERE

Submit your work to publishers, competitions, e-zines (online magazines)... just make sure that you send your best work, and be patient as there is usually a long wait for a response. Remember to keep a copy of what you send.

IMPORTANT: Never pay to get yourself published. There are bad people out there waiting to trick you into parting with your cash.

Copyright - Under UK law, your work is protected by copyright from the moment it is created. You don't need to do anything to claim that right. Note that copyright protects your writing but not the ideas contained in the work.

GET INSPIRED BY OTHER DISABLED WRITERS

It may be interesting for you to read work by other disabled writers. Have you considered writing about your experiences as a disabled person?

You might want to start with Sue Napolitano's poetry, Lois Keith's anthology of writing by disabled women "Musn't Grumble", Rosaleen Moriarty-Simmonds' autobiography, "Four Fingers and Thirteen Toes", Maggie Hampton's interviews with disabled women in the arts "Living Where the Nights Jive", and Disability Arts Cymru's anthology "Hidden Dragons: New Writing by Disabled People in Wales".

ESSENTIAL WEBSITES

Arts Council of Wales	includes an arts database of events and useful contacts.	www.artswales.org
Arvon Foundation	residential creative writing courses	www.arvonfoundation.org
BBC Writers Room	writing for film, TV and radio	www.bbc.co.uk/writersroom
Beyond the Border Festival	Wales' International Storytelling Festival	www.beyondtheborder.com
Disability Arts Online	work by deaf and disabled artists	www.disabilityartsonline.org
Disability Writes	supporting disabled writers	www.disabilitywrites.org.uk
Hay Festival of Literature and the Arts		www.hayfestival.com
Lapidus	creative words for health and well being	www.lapidus.org.uk
National Association of Writers Groups		www.nawg.co.uk
Sherman Cymru	New writing for the stage	www.shermancymru.co.uk
The Dylan Thomas Centre	centre in Swansea running literary events and workshops	www.swansea.gov.uk/dtc
Ty Newydd	writers' residential centre near Cricieth in north Wales.	www.tynewydd.org
Welsh Books Council	national body for publishing in Wales.	www.clc.org.uk
Writernet	information for playwrights, which includes a guide for disabled writers	www.writernet.co.uk

ESSENTIAL READING

Macmillan's annual "The Writer's Handbook" is packed full of extremely useful information.

ESSENTIAL CONTACT

LITERATURE WALES

Get in touch with Literature Wales (formerly Academi), the Welsh National Literature Promotion Agency and Society for Authors, for further advice.

 Academi, 3rd floor, Mount Stuart House, Mount Stuart Square, Cardiff CF10 5FQ

 029 2047 2266

 029 2049 2930

 post@literaturewales.org

 www.literaturewales.org

DISABILITY ARTS CYMRU

 Sbectrwm, Bwlch Road, Fairwater, Cardiff CF5 3EF

 (029) 2055 1040

 (029) 2055 1040

 (029) 2055 1036

 post@dacymru.com

 www.dacymru.com